

Resolute and Arris project was recognized as “Deal of the Year”

American-Israel Chamber Honors Resolute Networks and Arris with the Eagle Star Award

Modi'in, Israel – July 4, 2005 – Resolute Networks Ltd., and ARRIS Inc.,(NASDAQ: ARRS), today announced that their CES over DOCSIS collaboration was recognized as “The Deal of the Year” by the American-Israel Chamber of Commerce (AICC). Resolute and Arris received the top honors at the yearly Eagle Star Awards Gala on June 16th in recognition of their outstanding execution that has an economical and social impact on the region and Israel.

The CES over DOCSIS solution recently announced by Resolute and Arris, is considered to be a technological breakthrough. The combined solution enables the delivery of lucrative T1 voice and data services to medium and large enterprises over the existing cable infrastructure. These feature-rich services could not be met by alternative technologies such as VoIP.

Arris, a leading provider of MSO broadband access and cable telephony solutions has already supplied more than 5 million telephone lines over cables to the American residential market and together with Resolute's TDM based technology, offer an optimum solution to the commercial market. The potential of this market is enormous, said the award judges as the cable modem sold to enterprise market is expected to triple by 2009. It is projected that the US cable industry could reach $9.7 billion in revenue the next five years through this new CES over DOCSIS technology.

The enterprise market creates the major revenue to telcos. This is the reason why system and hi-tech vendors invest in solutions targeted to this market. The combined solution of Resolute CES technology know-how and Arris' position in the cable market was found highly promising by BIRD-F (US-Israel Bi-national Industrial R&D Foundation) that supported the project.

“We are building Resolute's technology into our products, which will allow our customers to go after medium size enterprises as well as consumers,” said Bryant Isaacs, president of Arris New Ventures.

“Arris is positioned as the No 1 company to provide voice over cables today and one of the top three cable companies in the world. The potential growth of the combined Resolute/Arris project is huge,” said Zeev Pritzker, CEO of Resolute Networks. “BIRD-F realized this potential of growth and supported it with a 2 million dollar budget. I am sure that we'll live to see the revenue very soon.” Mr. Pritzker concluded.
